U.S. EXPORT LICENSE REQUIRED

NOTICE: REVISED LIST OF GRACO MODELS

Certain Graco Husky™ model diaphragm pumps require an export or re-export license issued by the U.S. Department of Commerce, Bureau of Industry and Security (BIS) to be exported to many countries. These pumps have all wetted parts made of one or more of the following materials, Kynar, PTFE, Viton or Hastelloy. Affected model and part numbers are listed in Attachment A.

If your business is located in a country listed in Attachment B, Graco must obtain an export or re-export license for any transaction involving any of the referenced diaphragm pumps. If you are selling or shipping any of the referenced diaphragm pumps to a customer, consignee or end-user located in a country listed in Attachment B, you must obtain an export or re-export license from BIS for any transaction involving any of the referenced diaphragm pumps. This license must be obtained prior to the pumps being shipped. If you are selling any of the referenced diaphragm pumps to a customer, consignee or end-user located in a country listed in Attachment B and if Graco will be directly shipping the pumps to that customer, consignee or end-user, you must inform Graco and Graco must obtain an export license prior to the shipment.

Information on obtaining export or re-export licenses from BIS can be found at <http://www.bis.doc.gov/licensing/index.htm>. The Export Control Classification Number (ECCN) for the referenced pumps is ECCN 2B350.

Failure to obtain the required export or re-export licenses can result in:

- penalties from the U.S. government, including monetary fines, imprisonment and/or restrictions on your ability to trade in U.S. origin products; as well as
- limitations by Graco on your business' access to certain Graco products, up to and including being barred from distributing any Graco products.

Compliance with U.S. export controls is of paramount importance to Graco and we appreciate your attention to these requirements.
